

THOMSON REUTERS

Thomson Reuters
...now where have
I seen that name?

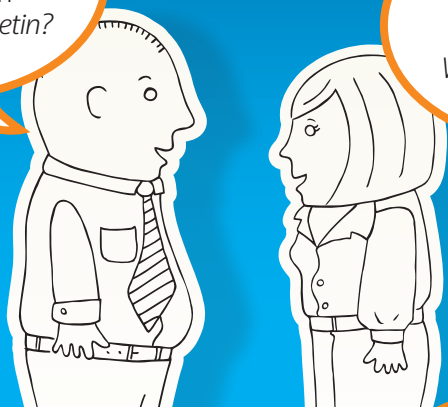

You know XYZ Model
Financial Accounts?
...well that's from
Thomson Reuters!

Yeah right...are they the same crew who publish Weekly Tax Bulletin?

Exactly. And as you know, if it moves in tax it's in Weekly Tax Bulletin!

Thomson Reuters...

- Has been publishing The Australian Tax Handbook continuously since 1955
- Has published the industry standard XYZ Model Financial Accounts for over 27 years
- Has produced more than 120 updates for The Accountants Manual

Thomson Reuters provides information to government and publishes on behalf of:

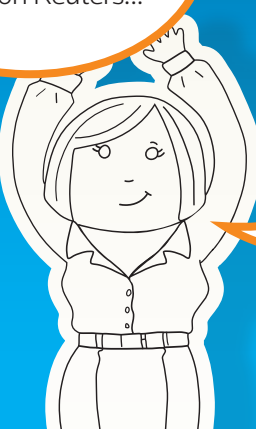

- Australian Securities and Investment Commission (ASIC)
- Institute of Chartered Accountants in Australia (the Institute)
- National Institute of Accountants (NIA) / The Institute of Public Accountants (IPA)

OK...but I can get a lot of stuff from another publisher - or even for free online.

Sure...but that's living on the edge. These guys don't just replicate what's available elsewhere - they do the hard work for you so it cuts down the time it takes to find an answer.

Best of all, you know the legislation is current. They even flag any amendments that are in the works.

By the way, you know ATP, TaxPoint and CPD? That's Thomson Reuters...

They've been in tax and accounting for ages. They used to be ATP, then Thomson, then Thomson combined with Reuters to form Thomson Reuters!

Thomson Reuters publishes Australia's leading experts in tax and accounting, such as:

- Tony Frost (TOFA)
- Gordon Cooper & Professor Chris Evans (CGT)
- Dr Philip Bender (International tax)
- Associate Professor Justin Dabner (tax administration)
- Professor Rick Krever (GST)
- Terry Hayes (tax news)
- Kevin Neville & Rob Mackay (financial reporting)
- Martin Fensome (audit)
